Designer: Katie Jaydan | Project Type: Mudroom

Educational Feature: Mudrooms: Making the Most of This Space

While a Mudroom may not be the first room a person thinks of to remodel, it can be a very wise investment. Home-owners of this 1910 Colonial St. Paul home knew they needed more space in their Mudroom to fit their active lifestyle so Castle came up with the perfect solution. By remodeling the existing Entry Way and opening up to the Kitchen they now have a more functional mudroom that will serve their needs day to day. Meanwhile, the Kitchen received a few cosmetic changes through the process completing the updated space.

“ The design and planning experience was very good. Katie listened to us with our goals, and made suggestions where appropriate. The drawings and computer visualization really helped us understand what we would end up with. What did we look forward to the most? A back door that we could close and latch without leaning our shoulders into it. ”
